About us

Set up in 1965, RAIGI was previously a Shell Chemical subsidiary. RAIGI became an independent family company in 1999. It is well known as polyurethane, epoxy and latex systems formulation as much as molding polyurethane parts and rotomolding technical plastics.

Our main markets are automotive, electronic, electrical, building trade and medical.

Raigi is expert in developing new systems from agrochemical raw materials (bio sourced polyols) and eco-friendly.

Our Strength

RAIGI has its own research & development team so we are able to develop formulations for new processes and new applications.
